

TEXAS A&M UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF LAW

Law Fellowship 2017 Gala and Auction Sponsorship Package

Every student at Texas A&M School of Law is required to do a minimum of 30 hours pro bono work as a requirement for graduation. Many students develop a passion for public interest law. Public interest law includes government agencies, charities, educational and international organizations, and law firms performing pro bono work. As a means to encourage the work in public interest, the Texas A&M Law Fellowship provides a select group of students with Fellowships of $3,000 each. Students selected as Law Fellows are able to perform six weeks of work in the field of public interest law in the summer.

The Texas A&M Law Fellowship is a student run organization. The funding for the fellowships comes from the annual gala and auction. Your sponsorship or attendance will further these opportunities for our students. Our goal is to raise $60,000 to allow 20 Law Fellows to receive assistanceships of $3,000 each in the summer of 2017, which in turn provides a collective 120 weeks of crucial legal services to those could not otherwise afford it.

Thank you in advance for your support!
