ACADEMIC AND PERSONAL CONDUCT

Because of the high ethical standards to which this law school adheres, the failure to disclose an act or event such as the ones described below is often more significant, and leads to more serious consequences, than the act or event itself. Failure to provide truthful answers, or failure to inform the Admissions Office of any changes to your answers, may result in revocation of admission or disciplinary action by the School of Law.

If your answer to any of the questions in this section is “yes” you must include a separate statement with this application providing a complete description of your actions and full details of the charges and sanctions against you. For example, to be complete, the statement must include a description of all charges or adjudications, including whether it is a felony or misdemeanor and the level or degree (e.g., 1st degree felony, class A misdemeanor). You also must include the date(s) of the matter(s), the status or final disposition of the charge(s) with the type of plea, such as, not guilty, no contest, Alford, guilty, probation, or deferred disposition, including your current status with the disciplinary or criminal authorities (for example, the status of your probation or parole), and the name and address of the authority in possession of those records.

It is not necessary to disclose information about a juvenile or criminal record that has been sealed or expunged; however, it is up to you to ensure that your offense is in fact expunged and/or sealed under the relevant state law. Mistaken belief or detrimental reliance upon the advice of a third party (such as an attorney or judge) is no excuse for the failure to disclose a reportable offense that has not actually been expunged or sealed. To ensure that you do not run afoul of this exception, you should obtain a copy of the signed Motion and Order of Expungement from the court in question.

1. Have you been subject to sanction or discipline by any academic institution, or by any entity representing any academic institution, or have you been allowed to withdraw from such an institution to avoid such discipline, whether or not the record of such action was retained in your file? This includes, without limitation, a letter or other written notice of reprimand or warning, suspension, expulsion, adjustment of grade, assignment of community service, any form of probation, or any other adverse action.

(You must report any alleged or pending charges, violations, and/or sanctions.)

2. Have you ever been arrested, cited or ticketed, charged with, convicted of, placed on deferred adjudication, or pled guilty or pled nolo contendere (no contest) to any violation or criminal offense other than a minor traffic violation? Note: You must report any failure to appear resulting from any offense, including a minor traffic offense, any failure to maintain financial responsibility (legally required auto insurance), and any attempt, whether successful or not, to suspend or revoke your driver's license.

(You must report any violation involving the use of drugs or alcohol, regardless of the severity of the incident.)

3. Have you ever been disciplined or reprimanded by any profession or professional organization, had a publicly granted license denied, suspended, or revoked, or had other disciplinary action filed against you?
4. Have you ever been a party to a bankruptcy (business or personal) or other civil proceeding in which you were alleged to have committed fraud or any type of misrepresentation, engaged in grossly negligent or reckless conduct, or engaged in the willful destruction of property?
5. Have you ever been confined by any governmental authority because you were determined to be a danger to yourself or others? Note: You do not have to disclose any voluntarily, non-court ordered hospitalization.
6. Have you ever been subject to administrative or disciplinary proceedings, dismissed, or other than honorably discharged from the armed forces?

(If you have never served in any branch of the armed forces, please check “no.”)

No

CONTINUING DUTY TO DISCLOSE

Please note that neither the submission of your application nor matriculation absolves you of your continuing duty to disclose any existing, pending, or new allegation, circumstance, or incident which would require you to answer "Yes" to any of the above Academic and Personal Conduct questions. If you discover that you have omitted an incident, or you receive the final disposition of a pending incident, or you are involved in a new incident, you must notify the admissions office immediately. You will be required to submit a written statement providing details regarding the reportable incident.

By checking this box, I agree to provide any necessary updates and amendments to the above Academic and Personal Conduct questions to the Admissions Office in a prompt and timely manner.

I AGREE
